Biggest Undeveloped Business.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

INTERNATIONAL Paper and Power company admits ownership in 13 newspapers, scattered over the country, including control of the Boston Herald and Traveler. This new interests young newspaper men that would like to be in business for themselves. Newspapers not owned by newspaper men usually come on the market at reasonable prices.

JAY GOULD owned the New York World. Pulitzer bought it at a bargain. Various interests, packers, dry goods, railroads, mail order houses, put five or six millions into the Chicago Herald. This writer bought it for a friend for less than half a million, just enough to pay off one creditor, the late Levy Mayer.

An able lawyer, far-seeing Mayer took a first lien, to secure his investment. Others got experience, in return for their millions.

IN EUROPE, police in many big cities yesterday unusually vigilant, fearing May Day rioting. May first is Labor Day in Europe, and Russia, as usual, was supposed to be planning violent demonstrations.

IN THIS thrice blessed country, our workers, with no thought of rioting are working for the six-hour day and five-day week.

And many are wondering how high our Federal Reserve will force the price of call money.

The co-eds did not come out of the battle unscathed, however, for according to witnesses, several of them were tossed bodily into the fountain.

It all happened, when the men students attempted to stage the "Crowning of the King of May," a burlesque on the crowning of the queen of May, an annual observance at the university.

Just as the males were grouped about the fountain and ready to make the "whoopie," 300 co-eds charged them. The onslaught lasted for almost a half an hour.

"Mother Knows Best," Fox film featuring Madge Bellamy, Louise Dresser and Barry Norton, scored a success in opening a four-day engagement at the Ceramic theater yesterday.

The evolution of Edna Ferber's story on the screen shows the process of the development of a child prodigy.

appearing and smiling on amateur night, through the baptism of fire until she reaches Broadway, the goal of all thespians, wealth, fame and affluence, with her mother the guiding spirit of the march to fame.

Then one sees what the years have built up, over a path of suffering and sacrifice, so tumbling into the discard when the first romance the girl has ever known comes into her life and the love that she feels every woman is entitled to is stifled by the mother.

Madge Bellamy, hitherto identified in Fox Films with ingenue and flapper roles, varying from light comedy to farce and interspersed with flaming youth, is a revelation, so far as displaying rare emotional ability is concerned. Miss Bellamy also registers versatility in her imitations of Sir Harry Lauder, Al Jolson and Anna Held, a component part of the story. Louise Dresser, for many years unapproached as a character actress, gives the most inspired portrayal of her career as "Ma Quail," while commendable performances are given by the entire company, including Barry Norton, of "What Price Glory" fame, Albert Gran, Joy Auburn and Stuart Erwin.

"IN OLD ARIZONA" TALKIE WINNER

The triumphant result of more than three years of experimentation in talking pictures on the part of William Fox and his vast organization is being shown at the American theater in the current attraction, "In Old Arizona," the first feature length Fox Movie-tone drama.

Based on a thrilling and romantic story of the old southwest in the late '90s, its main incidents center about the escapades and pursuit of a notorious bandit, "Cisco Kid," his love affair with a fiery half-caste girl and her affair with a young Irish cavalry sergeant sent to capture him.

Thrilling and interesting though they be, they are secondary to the refreshing novelty for patrons of hearing their favorite players speak their lines. That means more than a score of them, for the principals, Edmund Lowe, Dorothy Burgess and Warner Baxter, are supported by the most brilliant cast that ever has appeared on a local screen, headed by Farrell MacDonald, Ivan Linow, Joe Brown, Frank Campan, Tom Santschi, Roy Stewart and James Marcus.

COLLEEN MOORE HIT AT STATE

America's carefree, unchaperoned youth, supersophisticated and scornful of propriety, is colorfully pictured in the State theater's screen attraction, "Why Be Good?", in which Colleen Moore plays the stellar role.

The story of this comedy-drama is of the type that first carried Miss Moore to the heights of popularity, although the plot is decidedly original, and the characterizations of the most up-to-date variety. Miss Moore appears as a typical example of the modern girl, her costumes and personality being the last word, and her speech full of flippant wisecracks.

Although the story of "Why Be Good?" is essentially humorous, there are moments of serious drama interspersed with the frivolous episodes, the question propounded in the title being answered in a dramatic climax that is said to equal the finest work Miss Moore has ever contributed to the screen.

Neil Hamilton, in the chief supporting role, is seen as Miss Moore's leading man for the first time, while others playing important roles are Roddy Rossing, Edward Martindel and Louis Natheaux.

Fiber Is Restrained From Property Sale

Court Issues Order on Application of City Solicitor; Plaintiff Asks Execution to Satisfy $1,000 Judgment.

WELLSVILLE, O., May 2.—Roy Fiber, 1777 Arthur avenue, who holds a $1,000 judgment against the city, yesterday was restrained in an order issued by Judge W. F. Lones, in common pleas court, from proceeding with the sale of 3.66 acres of land owned by the municipal corporation.

The order also includes Sheriff William J. Barlow.

He was awarded a judgment of $1,000 in common pleas court and scored another victory in appeals court when the lower court's finding was affirmed.

He then sought to levy on municipal property to recover on the judgment.

This particular tract was acquired by gift by the municipality after it had been bought in at a tax sale.

The land is located in the Wellsville-East Liverpool road and, while it is pointed out that it is for playground purposes, it has not been used as such of late.

"Why Be Good?"

—A Story—Direction and A Vitaphone Score That Makes
"Flaming Youth" Look Like An Ad For Frigidaire

COLLEEN SAYS—

If a girl stays out after midnight, she's a runaround—if she doesn't she's a wallflower.

If she kisses she's "loose." If she doesn't she's the loser.

If she attends wild parties, she won't get the right kind of a husband—if she doesn't she won't get any at all.

If she says she walked home from the last auto ride, she'll never be asked on another.

If she smokes, she's wild—if she doesn't she's a prude.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says,
"Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."
But immediate relief has been found.
A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy,
dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.
Stop suffering from constipation.
Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at

Boosting Aviation

Cognizant of the great opportunity for providing for air traffic, sponsors of the Chamber of Commerce airport in Madison township have taken the first step in establishing a School of Aviation by appointing Roger Ellis, of Lisbon, a licensed flier, to teach student aviators.

With the arrival of Ellis, who has been teaching aviation in Chicago, the airport promoters announce that a portable hangar will be erected, while workmen are now busy in making needed improvements to the field which is on the Pittsburgh-Cleveland air mail line.

The owners believe that aviation follows airports like gamblers follow the horses, or "Build the birdhouse and the birds will come." Cities offering the best landing fields, hangars and other advantages will be placed on the commercial air lines. And in the improvement of the airport in Madison township, it is realized that the problems are complex, requiring for solution the combined experience and knowledge of the aviation expert and the engineer.

And, too, the Madison township field will not be affected by the smoke problem, which must be considered in selecting locations of airports. There is no danger of the East Liverpool district field being hidden below
 a heavy, impenetrable pall of smoke.

Insofar as air traffic is concerned, both for the present and the future, East Liverpool will not be found in the same position as communities which refused to encourage the railroad in its pioneer days.

Price Of Recognition

However much Russia is in need of the commodities of the world, it is evident from the reception given the recent trade delegation representing the commercial interests of England that the Soviet government will do without them if she cannot bargain for full diplomatic recognition.

The delegation of tradesmen representing 150 firms went to Moscow full of hope of bagging orders for materials for a very considerable amount. The Russians have let it be known that they expect to expend $10-$20,000,000 in the next five years. Since England has the materials which Russia needs and since Russia has the wood and grain needed by England, it seemed only necessary to take a little trip to Moscow to complete the deal. But the delegation did not carry with it the active cooperation of the British Foreign office, and without this the bargain in the minds of the Soviet government could not be struck. Again, there were no bankers in the delegation and nobody, therefore, who could talk business on the subject of the long time credit which Russia needs.

As a consequence the delegation was not warmly welcomed. In fact, only three of the number were honored by a reception. Mr. Litvinoff, Acting Chief of Foreign Affairs, had little to do with the group, quickly turning them over to a small committee while he hastened off to Geneva. Mr. Platakeff, as head of this committee, in his initial speech, lost little time in naming the price for more active trade relations, particularly as it concerned participation in the projected purchasing program.
 Concessions to English firms were declared impossible
 if in return Russia did not gain full diplomatic recognition. Without this, it was intimated, Moscow would continue to purchase only necessities.

With this declaration of principle it did not take long for many of the delegates to pack their bags and start for home. Only the more far-sighted remained to learn more of the situation and the possibilities of future business.

Now that England knows the price for participation in the melon which Russia may cut, it remains to be seen what she will do in the case. One thing is very certain:
 the commercial interests will leave no stone unturned
 in urging the full recognition of the Soviet government.

Processes Of Education

School children of New York city are to be freed from the excessive amount of home school work, in accordance with orders issued by Superintendent William J.
 O'Shea. All home work will be omitted in the first three grades and only light work permitted, thereafter, up to entrance into high school.

That will be interesting news to New York parents who have put in bad half hours working Junior's arithmetic problems. It will be even better news to Junior who, long ago, was disillusioned concerning papa's resources as a fountain of knowledge.

Home work will still be assigned, but it will not be of the type that is classified as routine, or monotonous.
 Complicated problems will be wrestled with in the class room under the skilled supervision of the instructor.
 Long reading will not be undertaken without the benefit of trained advice. Most important, perhaps, is the order that, under no conditions, shall home work be assigned as punishment.

Outside assignments which will bear the approval of Superintendent O'Shea, are reading, drawing, scrap book collections and reviews of work done in recent school classes. The last item, especially, will be interesting to educators who are campaigning for more attention to the value of repetition.

The mind of a child should not be crammed with too much knowledge in too short a time. Fortunately, most children built up an effective defense against cramming methods and refused to be rushed. For the benefit of the sensitive, conscientious pupil, who worries if he fails to keep caught up with the arbitrary pace set for him, such action as that taken by the New York superintendent is to be commended.

Unlikely as it may seem to some fathers and mothers
 and to a large number of educators, there are children who take their school seriously. Paradoxically, they must be protected from the dangers of too much study.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 2.—In yesterday's article
 we summed up the facts of the so-called Clemenceau-Pershing controversy, as told by Raymond Recouly, who had them from Foch, and by other writers who picked up parts of the tale from various sources. A hundred men knew, more or less, that the Allies were not satisfied with Pershing's insistence on fighting the American army under American command, in an American sector. Many would have welcomed a displacement of Pershing, though none can know unless Foch has written it, or Clemenceau tells it, exactly what conversations those two had about Pershing.

The records in Washington do show clearly how Pershing met Foch several times in August, 1918, and finally on September 2, and insisted on fight the A. E. F.
 as an American unit, and not passing out regiments or divisions here and there, under allied army command.
 Foch may not have known that Pershing had plain orders to that effect from President Wilson before he ever sailed from America, but he knew too much to insist on another plan. In agreeing to Pershing's method, however, he made Pershing very clearly responsible for winning the toughest part of the final campaign, namely the drive to Sedan through the hill and woods region extending westward from the Meuse river to and including the Argonne Forest.

Foch took a good deal of responsibility himself when he agreed to let Pershing handle his share of the final campaign in his own way. Many allied strategists wanted Foch to refuse and make an issue of the whole plan with Washington. Foch, in a sense, staked everything on Pershing; Pershing staked everything on the
 A. E. F. The rest of the allied world staked all on Foch.

The American first army started its drive on September 26, and glorious as was our assault, it failed to reach the objectives laid out for the first three days.
 Throughout the Meuse-Argonne fight there were many failures to reach objectives. The German resistance stiffened rapidly. All the enemy reserves available were thrown in to stop the Americans at a point vital to the whole German defensive system. Pershing was winning, but not on schedule. Many a heated discussion naturally arose at Paris and elsewhere. The Americans were suffering casualties which might have entirely stopped the war-weary French or British. Marvelously, they rallied from each set back and smashed ahead. But who could say they would break through to Sedan? Many doubted it.

Pershing knew better than his critics in Paris that his army was not a perfect, fully trained machine. Six of the nine American divisions which opened the Meuse-Argonne drive had never been in battle before.
 To Pershing the vital force needed in winning our share of the war was the will to win. He knew that the A. E. F. had it and that it would triumph. During the trying days of that fearful autumn, as his divisions pounded and sometimes broke against the fierce, desperate, and finally despairing German defense, his only answer to inquiries from Foch about how the battle was going was a series of dispatches like that of October 12:

"The First American army continues to press the enemy on the front east and west of the Meuse. An exceptionally strong attack, with fresh divisions, having the object of breaking the hostile front between the Argonne and the Meuse, has been ordered for the 14th inst.
 This attack will be pushed with utmost vigor. The situation is fully appreciated and all efforts are being and will be exerted for decisive results."

Decisive results followed. Pershing and the A. E. F. won through, and the war came to an end. It remains for such incidents as the publishing of the Clemenceau discussions about Pershing to remind Americans that we did not win through easily or without putting the courage of the A. E. F. to the fullest test. We won through with 200,000 casualties after seven weeks of continuous fighting over the hardest ground and against the toughest resistance of any front.

Through these weeks Marshal Foch stood by his agreement with Pershing, by which Pershing took over this terrific sector, to be won by American arms in American fashion. If the A. E. F. had failed, Pershing would have failed, and Foch would have failed. It is not strange that in a few years the two men were the closest of friends, so much two buddies as any pair of doughboys who had fought side by side.

Every fact and detail of the operations of the A. E. F.
 is on record in the historical section at the war college in Washington. Every dispatch which General Pershing sent or received from any source is a matter of record.
 The student may learn all about how untrained and ill-equipped our forces were, in many details. Probably only those who carried the weight of responsibility at the time can realize how Pershing staked his faith on American courage and American ingenuity to overcome what the A. E. F. lacked in training and materials. To know how he was criticized for some decisions is to know what a task he had, and how much greater his achievement than if the A. E. F. had swept easily through to victory.

NEW YORK Day By Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, May 2.—In the Harlem Black Belt is a large sect claiming to be Negro-Jews and worshipping in a synagogue. There are about 2,000 who believe they are the original Israelites of the tribe of Judea and that white Jews are descendants of the ten lost tribes.

The congregation is both orthodox and unorthodox. They keep the Saturday Sabbath, eat only kosher meat,
 observe the matzo diet on Passover, fast on Yom Kippur, but they do not deny Jesus. There are, however, two other congregations of the colored Jewish faith, who deny Jesus.

The more liberal group claim they are Abyssinians. Their bishop is a dapper saddle-colored man who delivers services in Palestinian Hebrew.
 His church is The Holy Church of the Living God, an old brown stone house jutting off a prominent corner on 131st street.

On the wall is the Hebrew alphabet,
 and in the rear a stained glass window of the Christian cross and crown.
 Worshippers upon entering touch a small brass object on the door—the mezuzah—and whisper "Shalom" which means "Peace." Old men wear long black coats and high hats.

The church music consists of a saxophone, guitar and tambourine—to correspond with kymor, the tip and the nevel of Hebrew origin. It starts off slowly in the manner of the tomtom in the deep African jungles and increases in tempo until it becomes almost modern jazz.

Members of the congregation stand and sway to the rhythm which they frequently punctuate with "Hallelujahs," but there is no camp meeting hysteria. In the strictly orthodox synagogues the preachers are known as Rabbis and are said to be men of deep learning.

The sermons are really a mixture of Hebrew and English. A passage from the Hebrew will be followed by an explanation in English. In the prayers God's blessing is invoked for "the true children of Israel." Harlem says its Negro-Jews are almost invariably hard-working and excellent citizens.

On a Harlem curb is a blind and one-armed war veteran who appears at intervals to sing ballads in a marvelous tenor. His voice—like the sweet song of a robin impaled on a thorn—has that tender and sympathetic quality that renders a block inert and molts every eye.

Every large hotel has an odd character for a permanent guest. In one on Fifth Avenue an orbicular old lady in rustling black silk makes a grand entry into the grill nightly at 11,
 drinks a rye highball from her own flask, eats a plate of ice cream, and departs. At another northward is a gentleman with side-wheel whiskers
 and hair fluted up like a frozen sea
 wavelet, who wears correct dinner clothes save for a flaming red bow tie.
 He occupies eight rooms and his sole companion is a pet squirrel. Another eccentric and his wife dine en famille in their suite every night and have a two-piece orchestra play while the meal progresses. But the prize dodo is a bachelor in a Park Avenue hotel who in his neurotic remoteness dines every night in full dress all alone in his apartment.

Florists declare a play two years ago whose disgusting theme was symbolized by a bouquet of violets has almost killed the sale of these flowers.
 Ladies will no longer wear them at luncheon, dinner or to the play.

 added more gaiety to nations than the Rabelaisian rowdiness of tabled snapshots.

"Your frequent references to art

 "are quite amusing. How long have Such is the glory that comes to an culars. Nobody ever hears of him

YOUR HEALTH

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

More frequently this year than ever
 I have urged you to watch out if you have had a hard cold, the measles, whooping cough or influenza. It is a common thing to have a cough after one of these ailments. That is a remnant of the disease and should not be neglected.

The whole family rejoices after the patient has "recovered." He has been confined to the house so long it seems good to get him into the open. That is believed to be Nature's way to complete the restoration of health.

But the trouble about it is, not every patient is willing and able to make the necessary efforts. The little walks in the sunshine, alternating with short naps, and the eating of plenty of nourishing food—these are essential to full return to health and vigor. But inclination to do these things is lacking.

It is not to be expected that one who has had a long sickness, with high fever and great prostration, can rush back to hard work. It is a mistake to do so.

Yet nobody wants to "leaf on the job," or to be "yellow." The fear of what one's associates may say or think is a spur to hard work before the body is prepared for it.

So the frail convalescent, wobbling on his feet and dizzy in the head, does not know what to do. He thinks he ought to go to work, but knows he does not feel able to do so.

The ambitious parent hates to have the child out of school a single day longer than absolutely necessary. The poor youngster, too weak to resist, goes to school a couple of weeks too soon.

Do not forget that it takes time to recover normal health after an acute illness. The system has been poisoned by the products of disease.
 The reserves of vitality have been exhausted. The nervous system does not react as it should. The heart is weakened from overwork during the high fever. The muscles are soft and flabby.

Time alone, aided by rest, sunshine
 and frequent small meals of nourishing food, can remove the effects of the disease. Even though you think it is wicked "to waste so much time," I beg of you to be sensible about the matter. You will be the winner in the long run.

May I say a word to the parents.

 Often you think that if you could have a talk with a successful man it would make you successful.

You attribute your failures to lack

Are you looking for something to

The chances are that if you should talk with a man who has won success and high position he would tell you something you already know.

That you have to work hard, study hard, give up all thought of self-comfort and ease and entertainment if you would get to the top.

You have mixed a lot of pleasure
 with your efforts.

Now science yields New Motor Oil free from harmful Wax

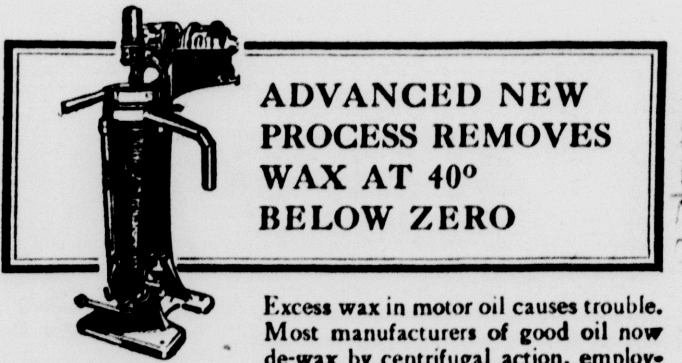

We bring it to Ohio in the New SOHIO Motor Oil

THE most recent development in automobile lubrication is now available to all Ohio motorists. The new Sohio Motor Oil is the direct result of the invention of a new method of motor oil manufacture. This process employs the spectacular temperature of 40° below zero to produce an oil free from harmful wax—a long-sought aim of the petroleum industry.

Embodied in this new 100% paraffin base motor oil are the two most highly desirable lubricant characteristics. First, high viscosity to successfully meet the extreme heat conditions in modern motors and second, free fluidity to insure correct lubrication at all temperatures. This is a combination of qualities not available in oils produced by the best of former methods.

Ever alert for new developments by which to improve the quality of its products, this company watched with keen interest the development of this new method. It has proved an unquestioned success. And, today, we offer our customers the full benefit of this remarkable process in the new Sohio Motor Oil.

The new Sohio Motor Oil gives you everything that a supremely fine lubricant can provide—a sweet-running, long-lived motor; freedom from the carbon nuisance; and maximum operating economy. Try it. Have your crankcase drained today and refilled with the correct grade Sohio—at any Standard Oil Service Station or Sohio Dealer's.

ADVANCED NEW PROCESS REMOVES
WAX AT 40°

Excess wax in motor oil causes trouble. Most manufacturers of good oil now de-wax by centrifugal action, employing the widely known principle of the farm cream separator. But the method used in the manufacture of Sohio Motor Oil performs this vital operation at the extreme temperature of 40° below zero, producing oil free from harmful wax. The results:

- 1 Little or no carbon
- 2 Flexible viscosity—perfect motor lubrication at all temperatures
- 3 Perfect piston seal—full power and least danger of oil dilution.

GOLDEN ADVENTURE

From Lake Erie to the River this great state is a vast treasure trove of interesting things to see and do

PLAYGROUNDS

The scores of summer resorts that dot the shores of Lake Erie draw vacationists from all over the country. Inland Lakes "downstate" likewise offer recreation and amusement. Wooded hills and winding streams thrill the motorist with their scenic beauty. Subterranean fairylands carved by nature tempt the explorer instinct in each of us.

CITIES

A hundred interests draw visitors to Cleveland—the metropolis of Ohio. The traditions of Cincinnati lie deep in the history of the Middle West. Dayton is the cradle of aviation. Columbus—the capital city—has its government buildings and the great State University. Youngstown, oars by day and glows by night. Toledo makes swift strides where, as recently as 1840, Indians roamed the forest.

PREHISTORIC RELICS

The rocks at Kelley's Island bear mute testimony to that distant day when northern Ohio lay under mile deep ice. Central and southern Ohio abound in the queer stone and earthwork structures left behind by the Mound Builders—Ohio's unsolved mystery.

HISTORY

Ohio has played its part in each of the Nation's wars. The oldest town in Ohio—Marietta—was founded by Revolutionary veterans. Perry's Victory at Put-in-Bay was the decisive naval engagement of the war of 1812. Fifteen Ohio counties knew the scourge of war in 1863 when the Confederate General Morgan and his band raided across the State. Dozens of other historical landmarks await the adventurer along Ohio highways.

MOTHER OF PRESIDENTS

Eight of the Nation's Presidents have gone from Ohio to the White House. And countless other Ohio men and women have achieved national or international fame. Mementos of this state's famous sons and daughters are to be seen on every hand.

HERE IS EAST LIVERPOOL'S "ASK FOSTER," SHE ANSWERS QUESTIONS

The business of Miss Kathleen McIntosh, 151 Thompson avenue, is answering questions, for she is the information operator at the East Liverpool exchange of the Ohio Bell Telephone company.

"Foolish questions? We have no foolish people in East Liverpool," said Miss McIntosh.

"But," she added, "a woman did ask me where she could get a refrigerator fixed—and people do ask for bus schedules which, of course, we do not have."

"My business is answering questions," she said. "If I can help patrons out, I do. If not, I refer them to the proper authorities."

"Is an information operator ever in need of information?" asked the reporter, and Miss McIntosh emphatically replied:

"Certainly. Especially when a sweet old lady at such and such a number asks to communicate with a man named Blank who has dark, curly hair and two little girls and goes to the Presbyterian church. That's a hard one."

"Patrons often try to discuss telephone matters with operators when such matters should be referred to information or to the Chief Operator."

KATHLEEN MCINTOSH

Miss McIntosh said, "If the regular operators take time to answer such a question, their attention is distracted from the switchboard and the service suffers."

FORTH WORTH, Tex., May 2.—(INS.)—Two persons seriously injured and damage totaling several thousand dollars was the toll, it was estimated today, of high winds and near tornadoes which swept Texas late yesterday. Lubbock and several east Texas towns were in the path of the winds.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(INS.)—Southwest storm warnings were ordered displayed from Jacksonville, Fla., to the Virginia Capes and at 4 p. m. north of Virginia Cape to New London, Conn. The U. S. weather bureau said disturbance of marked intensity over the Ohio valley moving northeastward, will be attended by south and southwest winds, probably becoming strong shifting to west and northwest and reaching gale force tonight.

Dry Quiz Rocks Ohio

Conrad, was filed in juvenile court today by the girl's father, Luther Conrad of Amanda, near here.

Little will be arrested as soon as he can be found, Prosecutor Russell Cunningham declared. The agent is neither at his Columbus office nor at his Dayton home, according to local officials.

Miss Conrad is one of the nine girls, who, Cunningham declared, told him they had been given liquor to drink by the agents.

John O. Cole, Steubenville agent, who was suspended with Little when it was charged that they used Lancaster girls as decoys to obtain evidence against alleged liquor law violators, was not mentioned in the affidavit.

He is not wanted by authorities here—yet. Parents of some of the other girls involved may file charges against him, however.

Suspended Agent in Lorain Raid.

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—(INS.)—That John O. Cole, suspended dry agent, participated in the raid on the Union Rescue mission at Lorain last night, was definitely established today by Acting Prohibition Director Sam K. Beetham.

The dry official, in a statement to the press, announced he had talked over long-distance telephone, with George Raynham, state dry agent in charge of the lake district, with headquarters at Sandusky, and that Beetham said he participated in the Lorain raid, which was based on information furnished by Cole.

Raynham also told Beetham Cole was one of the members of the Lorain raiding party.

Intoxication Charged.

LANCASTER, O., May 2.—(INS.)—State prohibition agents, Ed Little and John O. Cole were drunk in the home of Mrs. H. E. Perrish here, according to allegations made public today by Prosecutor Russell Cunningham.

Cunningham declared that Mrs. Perrish came to his office today and told him of the incident. The dry agents were then accompanied by two women, the county official stated.

The prohibition officers became "exceedingly intoxicated," Cunningham charged.

The alleged orgy occurred one night while the agents were engaged in their "clean-up" of Lancaster, the prosecutor charged.

Protest Sent to Governor.

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—(INS.)—A telegraphic protest over the raiding of the parsonage of Rev. George I. Cooper, of the Rescue mission at Lorain, last night, was received by Gov. Cooper here today.

According to the telegram, deputy sheriffs and state prohibition enforcement officers raided the Rev. Mr. Cooper's home. No liquor was found, it was declared.

It is understood here that John O. Cole, Steubenville, one of the two state prohibition agents suspended for connection with the "women-wine" scandal at Lancaster, participated in the raid.

Gov. Cooper ordered the state prohibition department to make an immediate investigation.

Raiders Enter Parsonage.

LORAIN, O., May 2.—(INS.)—Further criticism was directed against state prohibition agents here today as the result of their alleged forcible entry, without a warrant, into the parsonage of Rev. George I. Cooper here last night.

According to the story the raiders, numbering about 15, had set out to enter an alleged speakeasy in the same building with the Union Rescue mission. A quantity of alleged whiskey was seized and two arrests were made in the supposed bootlegging resort.

Later, according to the report, part of the raiders entered the parsonage which is on the second floor, over the church rooms of the mission. The Rev. Mr. Cooper demanded a state investigation in a telegram to Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, which reads as follows:

"Between 12 and 1 o'clock this morning five men entered our parsonage by force. After they had gained entrance I asked who they were and they finally said 'officers.' When I asked if they had a warrant they made no reply. They cursed my wife and myself with the result that she is ill today. I request an immediate investigation inasmuch as the raid was conducted by state agents and deputy sheriffs."

Beetham Leaves Georgia

WAY CROSS, Ga., May 2.—(INS.)—R. R. Beetham, state prohibition director of Ohio, enroute for Columbus, Ohio, today, where he will take over the reins of a liquor investigation. Beetham left here after a long distance telephone conversation with his son, Samuel K. Beetham acting prohibition commissioner of that state.

Cole Goes to Columbus

ELYRIA, O., May 2.—(INS.)—John Cole, suspended prohibition agent, left here at 12:45 o'clock today in an automobile to report to prohibition director Sam Beetham at Columbus. Before leaving, Cole reiterated his assertion to Agent George Baynham and newspaper reporters that he was not a member of the party of five raiders which allegedly entered the home of the Rev. George I. Cooper at Lorain last night. Cole admits that he was with the other raiders who entered an alleged bootlegging resort adjoining the parsonage.

DAYTON, O., May 2.—(INS.)—Thrown into a panic when lightning struck the street car in which they were riding and set the vehicle afire, 30 passengers took to safety via windows, some of the alarmed persons not even stopping to open them.

The near-tragedy occurred during a torrential spring shower last night.

The car was set afire, and the motionless, caught in the wild scramble that ensued, was unable to open either the front or rear doors of the "one-man" car.

Several windows were reported broken when the passengers took that route to safety.

Twelve other street cars were temporarily out of business during the storm.

Lightning also struck the old Masonic temple tower, but did little damage.

was nothing really between Dolly (sometimes Gene calls her that) and me. I restrained myself because of my friendship for Earle."

Peacock, who bludgeoned his 20-year old wife to death, carried her body to their old trysting place under an apple blossom tree and then burned the body five days later, chummed around with Bussey when they were in grammar school in Yonkers.

When the young radio mechanic married Dorothy last spring, he wrote of his romance to his pal and Bussey saw the couple as they passed through Baltimore on their honeymoon.

Termed "Open and Shut" Case.
District Attorney Coyne, of Westchester county, today announced that he had "an open and shut" first-degree murder case against the young radio sheik.

"It is no use now for defense attorneys to claim that when Peacock killed his wife, 'his mind went blank,' or that 'he saw red' and didn't know what he was doing," said Coyne. "Deliberation and premeditation are clearly shown."

At the time of his confession, Peacock showed a shrewd knowledge of the penal law which calls for evidence of premeditation for a conviction of first-degree murder. Peacock said he had slain his wife in a fit of anger. The prosecution claims it was due to jealousy.

A heavy iron bar found in the slayer's automobile may break down the story of Peacock that he crushed his victim with a pistol butt as they fought.

"Alibi Girl" Denies Slayer's Story.
Peacock, amateur criminologist, who dabbled in writing romantic love stories, also had a weakness for women, according to details coming to light.

Frances Newman Murray, whom Peacock hoped to use as his "alibi girl," bought the kerosene in which he cremated his victim's body. She is held as a material witness under $10,000 bail. Frances and Earle went around together after Peacock's wife left him.

Authorities were checking up the possibility that another woman accompanied Peacock to the murder pyre under the apple blossom tree.

The body of the victim will be buried at Riverhead, Conn., today.

DEATH ROLL

Funeral services for Beatrice, 11-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mitchell, will be held at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the home, "Little England," East End, in charge of the Rev. W. T. Howells, pastor of the Second Christian church. Burial will be made at Hamoveton.

Infield Lineup Is Greatest Problem Of Wellsville Manager

Talbott Going to First; Watson Slated for Third

Two Wagners, Rager and Davis Form Strong Outfield Corps; Deshler and Baker Will Probably Get Bulk of Mound Work.

(Editor's note—This is the second of a series of articles on Inter-City Baseball league players and prospects. Others will follow immediately.)

ROY NICHOLSON'S Wellsville crew of apple tossers broke into the limelight in district baseball for the first time last fall after several seasons of intimate association with the cellar berth in industrial loop rankings.

On this occasion the Wellsville combine, as a result of a flashy first half performance, captured the bunting at the close of the initial session of the campaign and qualified for a chance at the season's championship.

Homer Laughlin, after a mediocre showing in the first half began to show their cats in the second and swept through without a defeat. As a result the West Virginians were in their full stride when they hit the Wellsville club. The two teams clashed in the series and the Newell aggregation played brilliantly to beat their Wellsville rivals to the wire.

Pilot Nicholson, at Wellsville, like

NICK GETS MUNDY, WATSON, DESHLER

To begin with Nicholson was willed Bill Mundy, pitcher and infielder, Johnny Watson, third baseman, and Senny Deshler, one of the best flingers in the local loop for several years, in the player distribution following the merging of Turk Nash and K. T. K.

Along with Deshler, a right hander, he has "Lefty" Baker, the two of them making a pretty likely looking staff, together with Wolfe, who twirled some for the Wellsville nine at the tag end of the 1928 campaign.

In all probability he will have Gus Lintner back of the bat but will be additionally fortified by Tommy Maley, a good receiver, who, however, may be used as well in the infield, probably at second. "Okey" Householder, a youngster just breaking into the game, will also don the windup for the Motors.

With Edwards ruled out, Nicholson probably will shift Bill Talbott to first base. Talbott was at second last season. While Edwards was a good showman at the initial corner, his batting ability is not comparable with Talbott's. The loss of Edwards will not materially affect the Wellsville infield. Johnny Watson is scheduled for the hot corner with Hancock and Reese to fill out the remainder of the inner works.

The veteran Bill Rager is slated to chase flies again in left field and the two Wagners, George and Cal, are spotted for the two other places. With this trio in action Nick can take his mind off the pastures altogether.

Nick also is counting on Harry Davis, formerly of the Madison Billiards and in the event that Davis plays at Wellsville, the team will have one of the best looking outguards in the circuit. Davis is a classy ball player in every respect.

Other players listed with the Wellsville club include "Bus" Fifer, a Wellsville high school athlete, Joe Canine of East Liverpool, a youngster who goes by the name of Mack, Evans, another youngster, Firth Smith of East Dickey at Newell, is taking on a number of youngsters this season with the hope of unearthing some unexpected talent.

At the same time, however, he has a likely looking assortment of veterans who'll bear the brunt of the campaigning and the Wellsville manager is confident they'll come through with another pennant.

Liverpool, Cronin, Stewart and Stevens.

Nicholson would like to see Cliff Meeks, the big catcher, get into trim, too. Meeks wants to play with the Wellsville club, with which he played a couple of seasons ago, and it is entirely possible he'll be on the job.

Nicholson's biggest problem, at the outset, appears to be his infield.

PESEK TOSSES GERMAN GRUNTER

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—John Pesek, or "Jack-the-Giant-Killer," as he should be called, has demonstrated again that he knows just how to pin them down. In two straight falls, both on the flying wristlock scissors combination, Pesek defeated the big German heavyweight grappler, Carl Schultz, who weighed in at 234 pounds, here last night.

Glenn Wade, the Mississippi farmer, won his match with Joe Zikmund on a foul, after the giant Zikmund had pinned Wade down flat by fouling tactics.

Ray Route won a decision over Ray Carpenter in their 30 minute bout, in the curtain-raiser.

Ohio U. Beats Lutheran Nine; Reserve Wins

Mount Union Takes Oberlin Into Camp, 12-3.

Six Ohio college baseball teams, playing their first conference engagements of the 1929 season, returned to practice again today, some elated over their good showing, others downhearted.

Ohio university at Athens, one of the strongest teams in the state, which, early in the season, downed Ohio State, defeated Wittenberg, 5 to 1 yesterday in a last game. The Lutherans took the defeat rather hard after a good start with three straight wins. It was the third Buckeye conference victory for the Bobcats. Lefty Barfoot, of the Athenians, allowed the Springfield team only four hits.

Western Reserve came from behind in the final inning to nose out the Golden Plashes of Kent State, 9 to 8. The Red Cats were aided by errors in the seventh and scored seven runs on two hits. Hall, on the mound for Kent, allowed only five hits.

Mount Union, always a strong contender for the Ohio conference pennant, took Oberlin into camp in a one-sided game, 12 to 3.

The Sport Jigger

By the Sports Editor

HAS the baseball fire and fervor which fevered the souls of hardy East Liverpool youths a score or more of years ago been totally extinguished, or is it burning latently, awaiting the proper combination of time, motive and circumstance to burn anew?

Backward, turn backward, O time in thy flight and look at these names . . .

Curt Welch, Hannel O'Brien, Win Mercer, Alf Shaw, Bill Towell, Howard Shanks, Scoops Carey, Jack Barrab . . .

And later on Hi Myers, John Godwin, Bill Mundy, Scotty Alcock . . .

Virtually all of whom went to school on East Liverpool sandlots, mostly . . .

"Back of Pat's", and you old timers will know where that was—

And then graduated into the big time.

And many of them had for their classmates the members of the Original Crocker City and the Original Eclipse, among whom might be mentioned John Sellers, George Carey, John Davidson, "Cy" Young, from Toronto, Charles and John McShane, Joe Carey, John Reark, William McNutt, Eddy Carge, Johnny Daniels and others, among whom, also, is . . .

Ed. J. Smith, former service director, and the only living member, those old baseball gladiators tell us, of the Original Crocker City.

How come we must go back so far for our baseball glory?

"Well, if you ask me," opines Bill Whocisit, "I think a lot of the youngsters from whom our baseball material naturally would come would rather wear silk B. V. D.'s than a pair of baseball pants.

"They prefer powder on their chins rather than perspiration . . .

"And the wheel of an automobile in their hands instead of a baseball bat . . . and a lot of 'em would rather see John Gilbert crash out a screaming soul kiss on the silver sheet than get the thrill that comes with a solid clout that puts the old apple over into the famous west end rhubarb patch."

But be that as it may, the fact remains that when Eurlough Grimes, one of the greatest pitchers in the National League, the ace of the Pittsburgh hurling staff, came in from Minerva with "Hi" Myers last fall to dine with City Baseball leaguers, only a corporal's guard of baseball players turned out to see and hear the major leaguer. And Grimes' talk was especially pointed when he looked around at a lot of empty chairs and said . . .

"I suppose all these fellows who aren't here know just about all they want to know about baseball."

League Leading Browns Chalk up Eleventh Win By Beating Tribe; Phils Meet Cubs in First Intersectional Tilt.

By LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, May 2.—The world's champion New York Yankees have no monopoly on slugging honors in the American league this season. The Detroit Tigers have been hitting at a .320 clip, and yesterday the Athletics went on a terrific batting spree against the Red Sox.

The Mackian-maulers gave Ruth, Gehrig and Co., a mark to shoot at, by poling out twenty-nine hits, including three home runs, and scoring twenty-four runs. A batting bee in the sixth inning netted ten runs. The Mackmen almost equaled the modern base hit record of 31, held by the Giants, and the modern run record of 27, held by Cleveland.

Jimmy Foxx and Al Simmons each contributed five hits, Foxx getting two homers and Simmons one. Manager Carrigan of the Sox called upon twenty-one players in an effort to stem the tide. The Sox scored six runs.

Meanwhile the league-leading St. Louis Browns chalked up their eleventh victory of the season by defeating Cleveland, 4 to 3. General Alvin Crowder registering his fourth win of the year. It was the Browns' fourth consecutive triumph and Cleveland's fifth straight defeat.

The first intersectional contest of the year will be played today when the Phillies entertain the Cubs, the other East vs. West clashes being held over until tomorrow and Saturday. The Cubs and Reds battled thirteen innings to a 4-to-1 tie in Cincy yesterday after the Porksville outfit had scored two runs in the ninth to tie the score. Hack Wilson hit his fourth homer.

The only other game played was another thirteen-inning tie contest between the Cardinals and the Pirates. The Pirates, like the Reds, tied the score in a ninth-inning rally. Wee Willie Sherdel went the route for the Cards, while Hill, who started for Pittsburgh, was knocked out in the fifth inning. The score was 4 to 4.

JAVELIN TOSSER

Shattering the world's javelin throw record by 1 1/2 inches, Carl Jark, cadet of West Point Military academy, sent the spear on its record-breaking journey of 153 feet, three inches. Jark's coach, Leo Novak, is mighty proud of the new titleholder.

Coast Flash Will Not Enter Ohio Relays

Wykoff Absent When Simpson, Other Stars Line up.

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—Frank Wykoff, the fleet-footed California dash-man and a co-holder of the Intercollegiate record for the 100-yard dash, will not compete in the Ohio relays. It was learned by Bill Griffith, manager of the relays, today. The University of California has informed the Buckeye officials that its track team will not be here Friday and Saturday, and its outstanding star will not come as an individual competitor.

Despite the fact that the Coast's fastest human will not be here for the "dash of the century," George Simpson, the Ohio State speed-king, will have plenty of fast company—Jack Elder of Notre Dame, Pete Bowen of Pittsburgh, and Don Bennett of Toledo, the "boy wonder." Simpson has beaten both Elder and Bowen in duel affairs this year, and will be out to repeat Saturday afternoon. Bennett, who holds the world's interscholastic record for the 100, has never stacked his winged feet against those of Simpson, but has a mark of 9.9 seconds.

In the duel meet with Pittsburgh two weeks ago, the sleek-haired Simpson was yards ahead of Bowen when he finished in the record time of 9.5, and he was two yards in front of Elder when he broke the tape at 9.7 at the Illinois relays in March.

Other outstanding stars to be seen here Friday and Saturday are Jack Keller, of Columbus East High school, interscholastic record holder in the 120-yard high hurdles; Orval Martin of Purdue and Joe Sivak of Butler in the half-mile.

Efforts are being made by Griffith, the high mogul of the carnival, to persuade Paavo Nurmi, the fleet Finn, to run one or two exhibition races, from two miles up. No word has yet been received from Paavo.

Dwight Kane, Ohio Wesleyan star high hurdler and national collegiate champion, will compete in the low hurdles, his second best event.

Tunney, Man of Privacy, Planning Return to U. S.

Filled With Old World Culture and What Have You, Former Pug, Who Walked and Talked With Shaw, is Coming Home.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Mr. J. J. Tunney, the pugilist who perceived the error of his ways before it was too late, is soon to be returned to us filled with old world culture and a vast distaste for the reporter who doesn't know his place. This place may or may not be with the scullery help, depending on the point of view. Anyhow, I am informed today that he intends to return to America by way of Montreal in order to circumvent the ship news men and photographers and that probably he will arrive in New York strictly incognito, if not by stealth.

Personally, I feel that Tunney is absolutely entitled to what he wants and should get it. He has asked for privacy and, during recent months, it may have been noted that he has attained privacy in a degree that might have sufficed the keeper of a light house.

True, he has had to push the face of a photographer or two down inside his lens in order to keep everything peaceful and happy. But, after all, what photographers do you know whose face mightn't be the better for the experience?

Tunney probably would prefer to stay in Europe where one can push a photographer and he stays pushed. The American of the breed is a far more hardy specimen and, when the man who doesn't wish to be interviewed finally returns home, the chances are that he will find somebody waiting for him even if he goes so far as to come back on a cattle boat, disguised as a wild oat in the feed box.

By the way did you know that Gene is a master of disguise? The last time he had need to arrive unannounced in New York, he finished right behind a pair of smoked glasses. That was the time he didn't carry a book. On this occasion, perhaps he will disguise himself as a pugilist but he may decide, after all, that this is too obvious. Everybody knows that he isn't a pugilist.

There will be something very tricky about it, you may be sure. Gene has been sitting on the sands at Briole, discussing life and its problems with George Bernard Shaw. This is bound to lead to something. Mr. Shaw himself is an expert of no mean repute in the matter of disguise, having once disguised himself as a fight expert. He gained great distinction on that occasion by being one of the two men who picked Carpenter to beat Dempsey. The other was Carpenter.

They say that Tunney and Shaw have found a real communion of interests and, if this is true, we will have to concede that the law must have something on the ball besides the palm of his hand. Shaw is credited with out of the most brilliant minds in Europe and would hardly be amused for more than a few moments by an association that did not make for mutual understanding. Instead, he has occupied a suite adjoining Tunney's, they have strolled the beach together, dined at the same table daily. No one, it is said, knows what they discussed because none ventured to break in upon their privacy.

It won't be so here. They will want to know about everything, what he said yesterday and why not; what he intends to do today, tomorrow and next month. He may declare for privacy and, as I say, I think a man ought to get what he wants. But he will get no more than the average window dresser. For if he really is sincere in his expressed desire, he is going about it in the wrong way. My suggestion to Tunney is that he let himself be seen and heard everywhere and on every occasion and, within a week, he won't be able to get into a newspaper without a permit.

There is nothing more intriguing to human nature than the quarry that is in flight.

BETWEEN YOU AND ME

BY JOAN

"What was the name of the selection the orchestra just played?"

"That was Silk Stockings."

"I thought so. It did have a lot of runs in it."

Most runners need to be trained but not so with the stocking runner. "Zip" and they're on us, without a moment's warning. With no consideration whatever they attack the most expensive ones and very often the only perfectly good pair we have. An unhappy situation! I don't think anyone can sew-up a runner that defies detection. Quite often we have the misfortune to snag a stocking the very first time it is worn. The wise thing for you to do is take it to the Hosiery dept at Ogilvies. They have a repair service which re-knit the dropped stitches. They will look just like new and 'twill cost you a trifling sum.

It's an accusation we can't deny—we do lose things. Husbands are worse than we (they won't admit it). They put something down carelessly and then months afterwards demand "Where are those papers? I put them right here in the left-hand corner of this drawer and now they're gone. Gone I said." Immediately every member of the family is feverishly searching for the lost, strayed or stolen. What a triumph to be able to say, nonchalantly "They are in my safe deposit box at The First National Bank. I put everything important in it." Insurance policies, receipts, our wills and some jewelry (Such a reply never fails to have the desired effect on husbands).

Your boy! You desire, more than anything else to steer him safely through life's difficulties. You may not be able to give him wealth but almost any father can start his boy on the sure Life Insurance road to success. If you missed the opportunity to purchase insurance at the "bargain" prices of earlier years you will realize the importance of insuring your boy now. Miss Ann Watson, Special Agent for the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U. S. will gladly answer any question relative to Endowment Insurance.

Here it is May! Eighth grade and High school commencement exercises are just a few weeks ahead. I know there are dozens and dozens of winsome little Misses who are anxiously awaiting a shopping tour for the dress of their choice. I can hear them say, "Mother if we don't go down town today all the pretty ones will be gone." You needn't worry about that because LEMMERS have just received some new dresses for the Junior Miss in the loveliest colors and most adorable styles. And listen, yesterday afternoon I saw several very young ladies trying on the new sleeveless sport frocks—those Sun-back models. We've heard so much about them that I was eager to see them. We certainly are inclined to let the sun get to us this summer.

Instead of spending twenty-four to thirty hours in the kitchen each week preparing the baby's soups and vegetables why not spend those hours wheeling him about, thus giving him the air and sunshine you are depriving both yourself and baby by unnecessary work. So many mothers are including Clapp's soups and strained vegetables in their babies' diet lists. Stop at Carnahan's Drug Store and inquire about Clapp's Baby Foods. They will give you a very interesting pamphlet which tells you about the methods used in preparing these foods in THE LABORATORY.

The "Letter" which you have been expecting will arrive "special delivery" at the Ceramic next week. You inquired as to what a Singapore courtroom looks like? What kind of costumes do the court attendants wear? "The Letter" will explain. I don't want to keep you in "suspense" too long. Jeanne Eagles plays the leading role in Paramount's all-talking picture of W. Somerset Maugham's stage success, "The Letter."

Their team-work is excellent. I mean Sohio gasoline and Sohio motor-oil. If you've never had this team pulling for you, then you've no idea how powerful your car really is. You'll find it has greater possibilities than you ever gave it credit for having. Regardless of the quick changes in temperature, so common in Ohio, your motor will at all times receive normal lubrication with the new Sohio motor-oil. Drive down to the Milliron Filling Station—today—fill your tank with Sohio gas then have your crank-case drained and refilled with this new motor-oil. All set! You'll find your motor running quietly and your gas and oil lasting longer. Notice your gauge and be convinced.

At last! A recently discovered chemical which prevents moth-destruction. Let's get some "Keyspray" and wage a war on 'em. Moths, you are aware, breed fast. They do their damage quickly on magnificent furniture—splendid rugs—precious furs and fine clothing. Often you're not aware of the pests 'til the damage is done. "Keyspray," a powerful moth-proof chemical reaches into every crevice and corner, killing both larvae and eggs. Protect your home by using "Keyspray." It is distributed by the Frank Crook Co. Don't wait 'til the white spots appear. Then it's too late. Spray your mohair furniture every four weeks and you will free yourself from worry from heart ache and repair bills.

That fellow who said "All dressed up and no place to go," certainly wasn't wearing a suit or top-coat from Frank Diamond's store nor for that matter a hat or a shirt or one of his fancy ties. Oh, pardon me I forgot his foundation garment. I wanted to start him out with a suit of that fancy striped underwear the boys are getting into now-a-days. No, indeed, men who wear the Frank Diamond type of wearing need never be wishing for some place to go. Well-dressed men are always admired.

Next time the boy friend suggests taking you out for dinner and asks you where you prefer dining you say something like this: "I've heard so many folks say they serve such de-

The picture reveals the transition of a stage child to a Broadway star with a theater named after her. Through it all the daughter is merely a puppet with mother pulling the strings until the daughter comes in contact with romance and awakening in the girl that there is something more in life than just the footlights. The battle is on with a surprise denouement.

"Mother Knows Best," ably directed by John Blystone, successful Fox director, brings to the screen as "Sally" the girl, a new Madge Bellamy, likewise a more brilliant than even actress in Louise Dresser as the mother, as well as superb work by the entire supporting cast.

Smalltowners' Artistic Sense Stronger, Claimed

Congresswoman Sees
Art Progressing Faster
In Country.

To the small towns and villages of the United States must be given the credit for developing more sculptors, artists, opera singers and writers than the big cities. Main Street is the source of the impetus of the American people, according to Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, member of the house from Illinois.

The "hick towns" are the big cities, in the opinion of Mrs. McCormick, who lives near Byron, Ill., a farming community of 800 people. "They have their art galleries and their museums, but only because some wealthy benefactor provides them," she said. "In the smaller towns there is a much more genuine and general artistic development. The day is over when the concert road company or road show from the big city, no matter how low-brow its program, could invade and capture the small town. People resent poor caliber programs, and immediately ask: 'What is New York trying to put over on us?'"

Going to more common things, the small town is showing its civic pride in their hot-dog stands, gasoline stations and soft drink emporiums. No more are these roadside appurtenances eyesores. There is a real movement on foot to make them as beautiful and attractive as possible.

Other evidence of America's new artistic interest is brought out by the increased use of colors. Automobiles, formerly so somber, are not considered smart now unless painted in attractive shades. Color is insisted on everywhere, even on articles which only a few years ago were neglected—alarm clocks, toothbrushes, table glassware, towels and linen. Just step into the modern farm kitchen. It is unusual to find it somber or plain as formerly. No sir, bright blues or greens with utensils to match even to the dishpan and kettles.

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick

"We are awakening to the realization that art need not be a pretty amusing superficiality," says Mrs. McCormick, "but that it can be a part of our religion, contributing to the advancement and welfare of our lives."

KONJOLA ENDS TEN YEARS OF LADY'S ILLNESS

New Medicine Proves First and Only Relief in Breakdown After an Operation.

MRS. DAISY MARSHALL.

"I was never so surprised and delighted in my life, than when Konjola restored me to health," said Mrs. Daisy Marshall, 2625 Eastern Avenue, Cincinnati.

"My health kept failing ever since I underwent an operation for appendicitis. I grew weaker and weaker despite my attempts to find relief in medicines and treatments. I became nervous, and mornings found me tired, indigestion and back ache added to my miseries.

"I had heard many good reports about Konjola, and decided to try it. In four weeks I was completely well. My friends marvelled at the change in my condition. Digestion was restored, and my nerves soothed. I am gaining rapidly in health and strength, and Konjola has accomplished wonders in building me up. I owe it all to this matchless Konjola."

Konjola is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan's drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

What Will
you doWhen your Children Cry
for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

MURDER SUSPECTS FREED ON BOND

CHICAGO, May 2.—(INS).—"Machine Gun" Jack McGuire and John Scallie, against whom police say they have positive evidence connecting them with the massacre of seven gangsters here, won their right to $50,000 bail on a murder charge here yesterday.

Judge Jacob Hopkins, against the strenuous objections of the state, admitted the men to bail pending their trial which was set for May 29.

Attorney Thomas Nash, representing the men, demanded the state produce its mysterious witness. The state refused. Nash then termed the charges "presumptive evidence," and Judge Hopkins agreed to bond.

Underprivileged Boy Chief Criminal Source

Club Plans Sure Method Of Preventing Crime, Says Engineer.

John Hays Hammond, famous mining engineer and humanitarian, declares that the boys' clubs are the one practical method for suppressing crime among young delinquents.

"The underprivileged boys," he said, "constitute about two-thirds of the entire boy population of the country, whose parents, for the most part, were aliens, without adequate conception of the political and social institutions of the nation."

John Hays Hammond.

What happens to young boys whose parents have neither the time nor inclination to take an interest in how their sons are spending their adolescent hours? The result was only too evident until a decade ago.

These unfortunate boys, lacking the advantage of the child of intelligent, right-living parents, were drawn into juvenile delinquencies which later led to reformatories and often lives of crime. Then came the boys' club movement.

This has developed, says Hammond, into one of the finest institutions in the lives of these "underprivileged" boys. Furthermore, its remarkable influence often reaches to the alien parents themselves.

Hammond points out a subtle aspect to this method of reform which is at once pathetic and humorous.

"The great success of these clubs," he says, "may be attributed to the fact that they have capitalized the instinct in youth, the gregarious spirit inherent in youth, after all, he learns largely from youth. It will not learn from rules imposed upon it."

101 RANCH WILL ARRIVE SUNDAY

Wild West Show to Erect Tents in East End.

Thrills are in store for the small boy Sunday when the long steel trains of Miller Brothers' 101 Ranch Wild West unfolds here, and the trek is started to Columbian park, East End, grounds where performances will be given Monday afternoon and night.

This season the 101 Ranch has what is claimed to be the largest and wildest Wild West of all times.

More than 200 Indians are carried by the big show among its personnel of 1,500 people. Six hundred animals, including horses, buffaloes, elephants and camels are used in the presentation which opens with a gorgeous spectacle entitled, "Julius Caesar," in which more than 500 actors, human and animal, are used at one time. In this grand entry, the gladiators of old Rome are introduced as well as chariot races and Roman standing races.

Among the galaxy of stars is Suicide Ted Elder, world's champion cowboy, who thrills the crowds with his Roman standing jump, using two horses, over a parked motor car.

Other features of the world's greatest western show are the holdup of the Ponca City-Deadwood stage coach and its rescue by the cowboys; the attack on the covered wagons and the burning of the wagon train; trick and fancy riding by Indians, cowboys, Cossacks and cowgirls and sharpshooting by some of the dead shots of the old west.

A big parade will be featured at 11 a. m. Monday.

RECENT STUDY SHOWS DANGER IS WIDESPREAD

Scientists Say Few People
Guard Themselves
Against It

Some recent studies into what should be the correct habits of people who want to be well have shown that very few know or attach the importance of the bowels. As a consequence, while childhood diseases are being overcome and more children grow up, the diseases of older people remain about the same as they used to be. Man is so wonderfully made that the natural way to live is always the best way. Certain actions start a chain of reactions in the body. Scientists have found that the regular order of good health calls for the emptying of the bowels soon after eating, not once a day, as many people think, but three times each day. All savages who live close to nature follow this rule, and the animals which are nearest to man in structure are quite regular about it.

Failure to observe this rule will surely result in poisoning the system—a poisoning that gradually grows more severe. Kidney trouble, stomach trouble, eye trouble, blood trouble—nearly every disorder that man is heir to follows constipation. Many people think because they have a passage once a day they are not constipated, but they may be suffering greatly from this very complaint.

There should be a free and complete passage after each meal. That only is safe. But the taking of violent physics will never accomplish this without injury. The reaction from these makes the trouble worse. What is necessary is an easy, natural movement—one that can be accomplished only by keeping the muscles and the membranes of the intestines in good order. World's Tonic is more than a cathartic. It is intended also to regulate, to restore the tone to muscle and membrane that make them function properly, and therefore bring about natural action. Sufferers from constipation often find it a wonderful relief, while those who are on the borderland of this distressing trouble, and want to avoid poisoning themselves with retained decaying matter, are advised to take this new medicine World's Tonic, regularly. World's Tonic can be obtained at Carnahan's, also C. M. Brannan's at Wellsville, or at any other first class drug store. (A-37)—Adv.

GOITRE

A new treatment for goitre has been developed by the W. T. B. Laboratories 1234 Sanborn Bldg., Battle Creek, Michigan, which many believe will prove to be the long-sought specific for this unsightly and dangerous disease. Many of the largest and most hideous goitres begin to recede almost in a day. They gradually get smaller, and in many cases are entirely gone in a few weeks. It is equally efficient in cases of toxic and so-called inside goitre. The treatment is harmless and anyone can use it with perfect safety at home.

A 48-page illustrated booklet on the Causes, Dangers and Non-Surgical Treatment of Goitre, issued by the Laboratories, fully explains the new treatment and will be mailed free to any interested sufferer.—Adv.

Even Odor of Food Nauseated Her Till "Orange Root" Came

Mrs. Mary E. Jones Tells How "ORANGE ROOT" Relieved Her of Stomach Trouble of Several Years Standing—Everything She Ate Caused Burning in Stomach Followed by Headaches and Vomiting Spells.

Mrs. Mary E. Jones of Erie street, East Liverpool, Ohio, pays "ORANGE ROOT" a glowing tribute in the following manner: "I wish that everyone suffering with stomach trouble and general debility could take a course of this grand 'ORANGE ROOT' for it surely has delivered me from years of dreadful torture. Almost on the verge of a nervous breakdown, I had just given up hope of ever being healthy and well again, when I started on this ORANGE ROOT. Before taking it, everything I ate felt like a red hot brick in the pit of my stomach, and caused bloating, a tight, stuffy feeling which made it difficult for me to breathe properly. Gas pains around my heart felt like knives cutting me. Every morning on rising I would have awful head-splitting headaches, followed shortly by severe vomiting spells. I WAS AFRAID to eat anything for fear of bringing on another attack of indigestion. I dwindled down till I was but a shadow of my former self. I was absolutely devoid of strength and the least little exertion tired me out. I took most everything I ever heard recommended, but got no benefits from any of them. Hearing so much about ORANGE ROOT from friends who had taken it with wonderful results, I took 2 bottles of it and a few of these Golden Nuggets, and would you believe it,

FROM THE FIRST DOSE I BEGAN TO IMPROVE, until today, I AM A WELL WOMAN. I was surprised how quickly it drove away those awful pains, reduced the bloating and sweetened and corrected my sour, sick stomach. Since taking it I have not had another single headache, and have not had a vomiting spell either. I think ORANGE ROOT is just wonderful and am telling everybody just what it did for me. The Golden Nuggets are the finest liver regulator I ever took, and notice that since taking them that I do not become dizzy any more, I feel stronger and livelier than I have in years and friends marvel at my great improvement in HEALTH. I just tell them "ORANGE ROOT" DID IT. The ORANGE ROOT MAN is meeting great crowds daily at MATHEWS ORIGINAL CUT RATE MEDICINE STORE, where he is introducing this great TONIC to the public, and you are advised to go there this very day and get a SPRING TREATMENT at once, take it faithfully and you, too, will be surprised how quickly your digestive ills disappear, rheumatism vanishes, skin clears up, appetite sharpened and your whole system strengthened and invigorated all over. Forbidden Door

Story of Adventurous Youth, Mystery, Fortune and a Girl.

By Herman Landon

"Pelly, you bore me terribly." A squeak from the cot indicated that Hannan was turning over on his side. "If you don't mind, I'll have a few winks. Go right on talking if you like. You won't disturb me in the least. By the way, Pelly—Hannan's voice grew drowsier and drowsier—"this house, as you know, was built from the plans of Old Winthrop, my grandfather. He believed in having lots of doors. He put them in the most unexpected places. He used to say that a house without lots of doors gave him a feeling of being crated. Funny old man, wasn't he?" The cot squeaked again.

Mallingham swore impatiently under his breath. "No more nonsense, Martenet. The surest thing on earth just at present is that you will be dead inside sixty seconds unless you do as I say. I shall now strike a match. Then I shall count ten. If you have not signified that you agree to my terms before I reach ten, I shall shoot you through the head. One—two—"

A scratch sounded. A tiny tongue of flame leaped up. "Three—four—"

Mallingham broke off with a thick gasp. He sprang up, match in one hand and pistol in the other. He stared down at the empty cot. Directly behind it, in a place where one would scarcely expect to find such a thing, was a small door.

The dying flame bit Mallingham's finger. He threw the stub of the match away and cursed Old Winthrop.

A Meeting in the Dark.

With a soft laugh Hannan hurried away as rapidly as his troublesome foot would permit. Once in the tangle of halls and corridors that crisscrossed the house, there was little danger that Mallingham would overtake him. The darkness was a thing in Hannan's favor, for he had an instinct for finding his way in unlighted places. He knew it must be daylight now, but no sun would shine through the windows of Valhalla Notch this morning. It was even a little doubtful whether he should ever see the light of day again.

An uneasy hush hovered over the house. Here and there voices were whispering. Now and then came the dreary monotone of footsteps restlessly pacing the floors. Hannan opened a door and looked in. A candle was burning on the mantelshelf. A tall, gangling, youngish man with red hair sat beside a black-haired girl. They were holding hands, but they were silent. Neither of them noticed Hannan. He smiled and walked away. Up a stairway he went, noticing that the air was thick with sand and plaster dust. He ascended another flight of stairs and turned toward the south wing. Now and then he stumbled over piles of debris. In these upper spaces there was a constant and ominous creaking and grinding, making him feel that a crash was imminent.

Suddenly he stopped and hugged close to the wall. A door had opened at the farther end of the hall, and now footsteps were coming toward him. From the character of the sounds Hannan tried to gain an impression of the size and weight of the person approaching. With darkness all around and his ears keyed to a high degree of acuteness, the sound of a footfall told a great deal. This person was small and light and evidently anxious to make as little noise as possible.

As the footsteps passed, he caught the faintest whiff of perfume. He waited, and a few paces further on the footfalls paused. A door opened, then closed again. Silently Hannan moved forward, stopping in front of the door that had just closed. For a moment he listened, then turned the knob noiselessly and tiptoed inside. It was very still in there; he could not even detect the sound of breathing. For a little while he stood still, all his senses reaching out and raking the blackness. Now a sound came, slight and elusive, but in an instant it registered a meaning on his brain.

"Don't shoot, Viola," he whispered.

A gasp sounded in the darkness.

"Pelly wanted to shoot me. Now it's you. Why do people want to shoot me?"

"Who—who is Pelly?" came in a quavering voice.

"Mallingham. I call him Pelly because I don't like him. I call you Viola because I do like you."

"She caught her breath. 'And who are you?'"

"Hannan. I haven't seen you since the time we were in the fatso. I don't see you now, for that matter. But just wait."

He struck a match and looked about the room. Every room at Valhalla Notch appeared to be equipped with a pair of candles, and so was this one. He lighted one of them, then approached the girl. She stood against the wall, looking half frightened and half amused. A pistol, a small and simple affair, hung limply from her hand.

"No pearl handle," Hannan remarked, examining the weapon. "Don't you know all heroines should carry pearl-handled pistols?"

"But I'm not a heroine."

"Yes, you are. You are stunning and you are mysterious and full of surprises. You bob up everywhere. Like the wind you come and like the wind you go. What more can one expect of a heroine?"

"Oh, if that's all, I suppose I can qualify."

"You qualify with bells on," Hannan told her. He looked into her pale, delicately rounded face. Her eyes were smiling up at him, but there was a hint of dread in the hazel depths. "I was told you were ill?"

"I was. I had to have a doctor * * * But I'm better now."

Hannan looked deep into the hazel eyes. His own twinkled softly.

"Somebody told me you were on your way to place called Intervale, but got lost in the storm. Is that true?"

"Doesn't it sound plausible? It was a terrible storm. 'It was a beautiful storm, because it brought you.'"

She looked stubbornly down at the floor.

"I suppose it would be useless to ask your real reason for coming here?"

The brown head nodded emphatically.

"Who were you looking for when you passed me in the hall?"

"Somebody."

"For me, in other words?"

She looked up and fixed him with a mocking gaze.

"You are just a bit conceited, Mr. Hannan. Martenet. I happened to be looking for Mr. Curry. I knew all the time where you were."

Hannan's face sobered. "I'm worried about Mr. Curry. Have you found any trace of him?"

"Not the slightest."

"And have you no idea what became of him?"

"No, not unless—" She faltered.

"Unless Mallingham killed him," Hannan finished for her.

She did not reply. The candle was casting a wavering glow on her pale face. The creaking of straining timbers was the only sound. Here, in the upper parts of the house, the gradual process of destruction sounded louder and more ominous.

"Viola," he whispered.

"Yes, Mr. Hannan Martenet?"

He looked down at the pistol he was still holding.

"Call me Hannan," he commanded, making a playfully ominous gesture with the pistol. "Call me Hannan, or I shoot!"

"All right—Hannan."

"That's better." He returned the weapon to her. "I want you to tell me a little secret, Viola. You saw something very strange the night you came here. You and the caretaker were in the little hall of the library. Suddenly the door started to open. What else did you see?"

A shudder shook her slim figure. I wish you wouldn't ask me that Hannan."

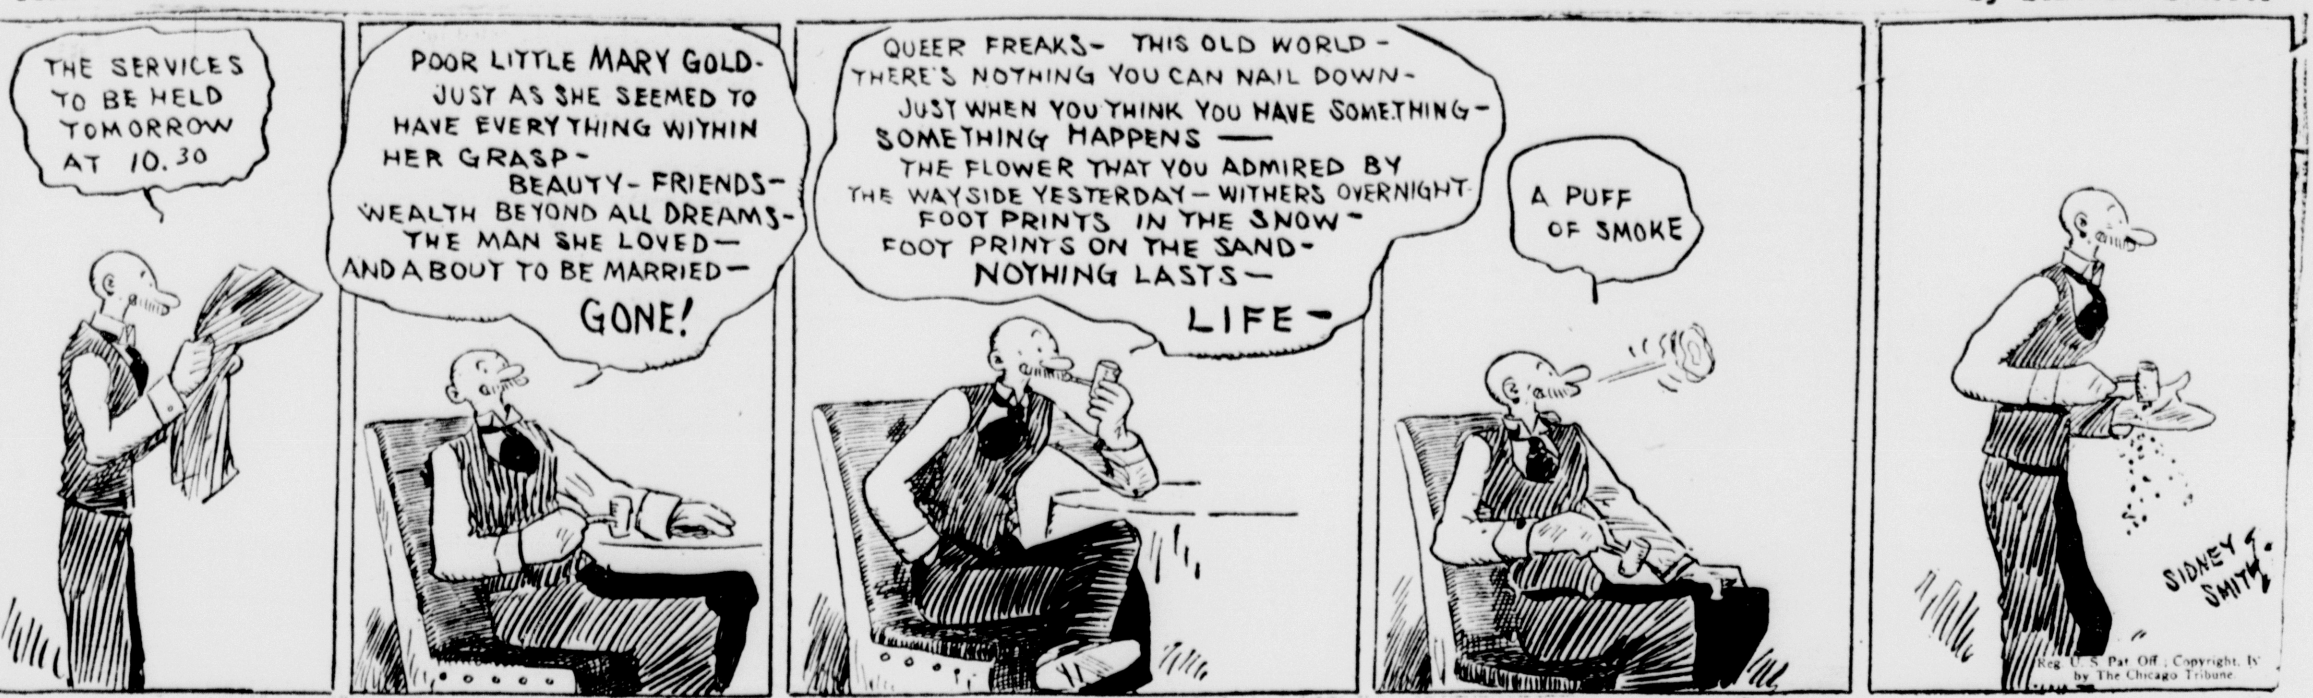

"I must know. You saw some one—some one you know. Who was it?"

"I'm not sure I—I knew him. I saw the face only for a second, and then it was gone. It was too awful! Please don't ask me any more, Hannan."

"All right," said Hannan gently, seeing that the recollection, vague and fragmentary though it had been, distressed her. "There is just one thing we ought to be clear about. Do you suppose the person you saw, or thought you saw, is still behind the iron door? If so

Prescription He Wrote in 1892 is the World's Most Popular Laxative

When Dr. Caldwell started to practice medicine, back in 1875, the needs for a laxative were not as great as they are today. People lived normal, quiet lives, ate plain, wholesome food, and got plenty of fresh air and sunshine. But even that early there were drastic physics and purges for the relief of constipation which Dr. Caldwell did not believe were good for human beings to put into their system. So he wrote a prescription for a laxative to be used by his patients.

The prescription for constipation that he used early in his practice, and which he put in drug stores in 1892 under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a liquid vegetable remedy. Intended for women, children and elderly people, and they need just such a mild, safe, gentle bowel stimulant as Syrup Pepsin.

Under successful management this prescription has proven its worth and is now the largest selling liquid laxative in the world. The fact that millions of bottles are used a year proves that it has won the confidence of people who needed it to get relief from headaches, biliousness, flatulence, indigestion, loss of appetite and sleep, bad breath, dyspepsia, colds and fevers.

Millions of families are now never without Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

and if you will once start using it you will also always have a bottle handy for emergencies.

It is particularly pleasing to know that the most of it is bought by mothers for themselves and the children, though Syrup Pepsin is just as valuable for elderly people. All drug stores have the generous bottles.—Adv.

"Rinso makes such creamy, cleansing suds in our hard water that all the dirt just soaks out. You don't even have to boil—clothes come out so snowy! I love the way it brightens colored clothes, too."

MRS. WM. N. VODREY, 204 Penna. Ave., East Liverpool, Ohio.

Makers of 36 washers endorse it

One cupful of this compact, granulated, hard-water soap gives more suds than two cupfuls of puffed-up soap.

Drive it—and you'll know Chrysler performance IS different

Chrysler enjoys its universal prestige and popularity because Chrysler is unique among motor cars.

There is no other motor car performance quite like Chrysler performance—so silky in power, so flashing in pick-up, so steady in speed, so untiring to drive, so disciplined in control.

This is understandable when you check the list of Chrysler engineering developments included in both the "65" and the "75"—chassis and body features, and combinations of features, to be enjoyed only in Chrysler cars.

Chrysler offers, in the final analysis, something more than just a motor car. It affords, in reality, a delightful new phase, a thrilling new experience, in motoring performance.

You can pay more and still not equal the performance or the intrinsic value that Chrysler "65" and "75" both give you at their remarkably moderate prices.

Ask any Chrysler dealer for a demonstration and learn the difference. CHRYSLER "65"—Business Coupe, $1040; 2-door Sedan, $1065; 4-door Sedan, $1145. (Three other body styles to $1145.) "THE HOME OF THE FINEST MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS"

"My! you look lovely to-night"

SHE knew the compliment to be true—for the last pimple had vanished.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you must realize that the logical cause may come from the blood.

A clear, smooth, velvety skin bespeaks loveliness. Men admire it. Women praise and secretly envy. Hope, joy, happiness, and even love, may depend on the possession of a clear, unblemished skin.

On the other hand—skin eruptions are outward evidences of the condition within. Authorities state it is an indication that the body's power of resistance to disease and infection is low. Meaning, that there is a deficiency of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish let-down feeling, loss of appetite, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and you sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to diseases.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for improving the appetite, building strength, and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, by increasing the red-cells of the blood.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test of over 100 years.

S.S.S.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.
